

BOSWORTH TRAIL FROM LEXINGTON IS NOW ASSURED

Judge Bosworth in Delegation to Frankfort Which Persuaded Road Commission to Order Survey Of Proposed Route

That the Bosworth Trail, the latest proposed highway between Cumberland Gap and Lexington is now an assured reality, was stated this morning by Judge J. F. Bosworth, who returned yesterday from a mission in regard to the road. He was one of a delegation of road boosters from the towns on this proposed route who went before the road commission at Frankfort Monday and persuaded that body to agree to making a survey of the route indicated.

This road, the most direct route from here to Lexington, will run through Richmond, Berea, McKee, Red Bird, Pineville, Middlesboro and Cumberland Gap, and every town on the line is fighting hard to obtain it. Richmond, Berea, Manchester and McKee all had big representations in the Frankfort delegation. Judge Bosworth represented this section.

The action of the road commission assures the road, Judge Bosworth, in whose honor the trail will be named, said today. He added that, if the survey were started right away some contracts along the line might be let by September. J. S. Maret, of Lexington, father of the Boone Highway, and enthusiastic road promoter in Central Ky., is backing the new trail strongly and has assured Judge Bosworth of his cooperation in putting it across.

The following item concerning the Bosworth Trail appeared in the Lexington Leader Tuesday:

"The Bosworth Trail is the latest proposed highway to be added to the list of roads leading from Cumberland Gap to Lexington. The routing pass is through Middlesboro, Red Bird, Pineville, Manchester, Berea and Richmond to the heart of the Bluegrass, following the routing of State primary project No. 30 from Pineville to Richmond.

"Joe Bosworth, the 'daddy' of the Twentieth Century Ky., good roads bill and for whom the new highway was named, delivered a fine address before the State Highway Commission Monday, in which he noted that road bond issues almost invariably carry in the mountain counties, which accounts for so much road construction going on in that territory. Bell county recently voted by 7 to 1 its third, to the amount of $400,000, making a total of more than $1,000,000 for good roads within the past seven years."

Council To Meet Monday Night

The next meeting of the city council will be held on Monday, January 22, according to Mayor J. H. Keener who has decided not to have a meeting this week. A meeting was not held Monday night on account of the absence of Mayor Keener and M. G. Hubbard, councilman who acts as mayor pro-tem.

CITIZENS BANK HAS BIG YEAR

Annual Statement Best Since Wartime Inflation—Deposits Increasing Steadily

The annual statement of the Citizens Bank and Trust Co., printed in this paper today, is the best one the bank has made since the wartime inflation, 1917-20, according to the cashier, W. E. Frazer.

Deposits are more than a million dollars and are increasing every day in a steady flow, not spasmodically, as in the wartimes. The statement shows more than $186,000 in actual cash on hand in the bank. Directors and officers of the bank are looking forward to a very prosperous year, or at least the first six months.

The directors of the Citizens bank are: W. P. Allen, Gibson Station; J. M. Hamilton, Shawanee; W. E. Cabell, O. B. Hollingsworth, J. C. Richardson, J. H. Sampson and H. A. McCamy. The officers are: President, H. A. McCamy; cashier, W. H. Frazer; assistant cashier, C. P. E. Williams; bookkeeper, L. D. Rouser; savings department, Miss Bessie Edwards.

NEW AUTO LICENSE TAGS GIVE OUT

Not Half Cars in County Yet Licensed—Time Extension Because of Tag Shortage

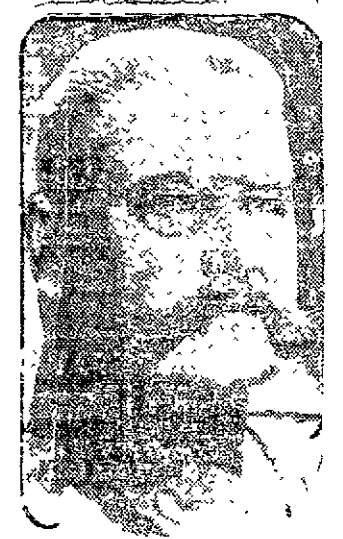

PINEVILLE, Jan. 11.—Only 580 automobile licenses for touring cars out of 1,100 cars in Bell county, have been issued, according to County Clerk F. S. Broughton. Out of 200 trucks in the county only 76 licenses have been issued so far. One reason for the delay is the fact that the license tags have run out and no more can be issued until a new supply comes in. These are expected by next Tuesday when Floyd Broughton will go to Middlesboro for another day to issue licenses.

According to law all persons now driving cars with old licenses are subject to arrest and fine of $100 but the police have agreed to be lenient with the users of old licenses since the new ones due to the shortage age, cannot be obtained at the present time.

The county clerk here has already sent into the State Automobile Department at Frankfort $11,000 and this amount will be raised to approximately $25,000 by the time all the cars have been supplied with licenses.

GRAY RESIGNS PRESBYTERIAN PASTORATE

Accepts Call to Large Church in Lexington—Resignation Tendered at Prayer Meeting Service Last Night

WILL PREACH LAST SERMON IN MIDDLESBORO FEB. 11

At the regular prayer meeting service Wednesday night at the First Presbyterian church, Dr. Johnson Atcher Gray, minister of the church, announced his resignation and called for a special congregational meeting after the regular morning service Sunday, to ask the members to vote to release him, and to send a delegate to Knoxville Presbytery, concurring in his wishes to have the pastoral relation dissolved.

Dr. Gray did not announce the date he expected to go to the Maxwell street Presbyterian church, Lexington, Ky., but it is understood he will preach here for the last time Feb. 11, and preach in his new field Sunday, February 18. He sent a night letter to the Lexington church after the meeting accepting the call, which was unanimously tendered him by that congregation, and as a New Year's present, January 1.

Preceding the last night's service, the session of the church met with Dr. Gray and reluctantly submitted to his request, and all of the members present spoke of his splendid work in Middlesboro, and wished him God Speed in his new work and after his meeting in the church, which was attended by a large crowd, the members with sad hearts, many of them.

"It is the saddest thing I have ever been called upon to do," Dr. Gray told his congregation, as he announced his resignation to his people. "I have looked at the matter from every angle, and have prayerfully considered the matter in every light, and I am sure that God is leading me to take this step. We follow a road and when it takes a turn, we must follow it on to the end. I love you all, every one of you, and it will be like tearing all I love up by the roots to leave, but God is calling and his servant must obey. I have tried to be faithful to my every duty, and I believe I leave with the best wishes of all."

Dr. Gray came to the Middlesboro church two years ago last summer. During the time he has been here he has built up the church to a great extent. By his activity in civic affairs he has made many friends outside the church which makes the fact of his leaving more a civic than an individual church loss. Then, too, Dr. Gray has won, by his eloquence, a large following throughout this section, and his worth to the presbytery was evinced by the fact of his being made moderator of that body last year.

BAPTISTS RESPOND TO PLEA FOR MORE CONSECRATION

The auditorium of the First Baptist church was crowded with persons out to hear Dr. Finley F. Gibson evangelist from Louisville, who is holding a series of interesting meetings there. His sermon last night was "Christ's Program for His Church Reaching the Lost." The subject tonight is "The New Birth."

Dr. Finley gave many splendid illustrations from the scripture and from his life's work showing how church members carry on a patched up program and fail to take Christ and the work he has planned for them seriously. At the close of this address more than 500 persons voluntarily went forward and gave Dr. Finley their hand, and promised to do anything in the future that the spirit of God directed them to do.

A special musical program under the direction of J. Fred Schellert is held each night.

PREDICT GREAT BUILDING YEAR FOR MIDDLESBORO

Local Lumber And Business Men Say Prospects Were Never Better—Scarcity Of Residences An Influence

HOME LOAN ASSOCIATIONS GREATLY STIMULATE BUILDING

Prospects for a great building year in Middlesboro and vicinity were never greater than at present, according to dealers in lumber and builders supplies and other business men who are in a position to know. "Our business for the first ten days of this year is exactly double what it was this time last year," said the manager of a local lumber company. "Business men of this city are beginning to realize that, in view of the prevalent scarcity of residence houses, the erection of houses is not only a profitable business but is also one which indicates an interest in the welfare of the city in general."

"From present indications, this will be the biggest building year in Middlesboro that we have ever had," said another prominent lumber man.

With the building figures of last year standing at nearly a million dollars. This is a pretty broad statement to make. However, the new hotel, the high school and the four grade schools swelled the total considerably for 1922. With the pressing need for more residence houses, it is thought that a much greater number of these dwellings will be built this year.

"What we need here to further stimulate the building of homes is more home loan associations," by according to one business man. "By becoming a member of such an association a man can pay cash for the materials for building his home, and by paying a monthly sum no larger than ordinary rental fees, can have his home paid for within a few years."

Several houses are under construction now, and the fine weather continuing, work on many more will begin soon. It is expected that a veritable building boom will sweep the town in the spring.

A nice residence is being erected by C. W. Bailey, L. and N. agent. Williamson and Billingsby are building a house on Exeter avenue.

Work on a handsome residence has just been started by James Manus at the Junction.

Perhaps one of the most unique houses in the city will be the six-room house of Jeff Meyers which is nearing completion at the junction. Its walls are constructed of logs and it has a galvanized tin roof.

Sentries Patrol Streets, Army Now Encircling Ruhr—No Loss of Life or Single Shot Yet Fired

GERMANS THROUGH WITH TREATY BREAKING POWERS

By Associated Press.
With the French Army in the Ruhr

The French army is encircling the heart of the Ruhr valley. It marched into Essen this morning in a new move for occupation of additional German territory and began patrolling Essen streets while French sentries were stationed at the entrance of the great Krupp Works. French tanks command the city hall square and infantry pickets hold the railroad station. Before noon occupation of the Essen was an accomplished fact.

Advance from the Dusseldorf bridge head was led by armed cars while cavalry debouched in Mulheim.

One infantry division marched into the valley from Dusseldorf and another from Duisburg. Two other infantry divisions are held in reserve. Up to this afternoon occupation was carried out without loss of life or firing of a single shot.

LACK OF BOARDING PLACES KEEPS GIRLS WORKERS AWAY

Inability to obtain boarding places is keeping many girls from coming to Middlesboro to work, according to M. H. Zaubner, of the Big Ben manufacturing company which employs more girls than any other firm in the city. "There are doubtless many families which could spare a room for two girls," he said, "and by doing so they would not only be doing the girls and us a great favor but they would be helping the city to grow in population."

Owing to increasing business, the Big Ben company is making efforts to obtain new operatives from other places. They are handicapped in this because at present it is almost impossible for the girls to find places to board.

Those who can accommodate one or more girls in their homes are requested by the management of the Big Ben company to let him know be employed by the firm.

Of course girls of good character only will be employed by the firm.

A THOUGHT

ADVICE NOT TO BE FORGOTTEN

It was given by our first President, more than a century and a quarter ago, on the eve of his surrendering his office at the end of a second term, in the shape of a farewell address. One of the items of advice given by George Washington consisted in a warning, the necessity of which has been and is still being demonstrated. What was said in that address has lost nothing of value in the lapse of time. From this address this clause is copied:

"Europe has a set of primary interests, which to us have none, or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent contraversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns.
Hence, therefore, it must be unwise
in us to implicate ourselves, by artificial ties, in the ordinary vicissitudes of politics, or ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."

There are some Americans in our time who would probably say that that conditions have changed to the extent that what was said then is not applicable now. But there are others of the opinion that he was clothed in a very remarkable degree with prescience, and that what he said
has been clothed with additional force
by the lapse of time, especially emphasized by the occurrences of the world war, and by what has been going on since the close of the war and is going on now.

It is true that the fundamental rule laid down by our first President is as fine a guide for the nation now, as it was on the 17th day of September in the year 1806. It has been applied through the years, the wisdom of it was never before more apparent and has avoided
entanglements with foreign nations, and it is the purpose of those in charge of our national affairs to adhere to that policy. As said by the Cincinnati Enquirer:

The lessons of the war still are fresh in the memory of all men, the fag of desolation still envelops millions of human beings, the very fate of civilization still trembles in the balance, and yet the representatives of the nations assemble to dicker and bargain and trade, to threaten and quarrel, to gander, to infringe, to put forth the native hand,
to clutch the silver pieces of betrayal! Nothing that they do, or leave undone, as yet encourages belief that there is real hope for the permanency of peace, the splendid progress of humanity marching to its goal in the perfect harmony of brotherly accord.
Americans are sorry to witness the wranglings that are going on over there. They would like to see the countries over there enjoying peace and prosperity. We would be pleased to see them producing more, to the end that we would find a market sympathize with them on account of their enormous war debt, and in having to taxed to an extent they have never before experienced.

But when we see nations with less than half the population of the Uni-

ed States, being taxed for the support of an army, twice the size of our own army, had we been in doubt before we would at once admit that when Washington warned his countrymen that it "would be unwise in us to implicate ourselves," he gave sound advice.
The armies laid down their arms
four years ago and there seemed to be promise of a long season of world peace. But at the present time the prospect of peace in Europe is less promising than it was on that 11th day of November in the year 1918.
Have we ever been in a position to more keenly appreciate and act up on the advice of Washington to choose peace rather than war?—Journal and Tribune.

BANK STATEMENT SHOW UP WELL

The annual statements of the two local banking concerns appear in today's paper, and the excellent condition of their accounts as set forth
there convinces us, probably more forcibly than anything else, that hard times have passed and prosperity is again here. For, undoubtedly, the true reflection of a community's financial condition is its banks.

Each of these banks show deposits of more than a million dollars. One bank lists resources of $1,682,655.12, the other, $1,395,174.15, making a total of $3,077,829.27. One bank has in actual cash on hand and in banks, $186,223.27 and the other $152,039.28.
Such stable statistics are indeed satisfying.

The last of 1921 and the first of 1922 were discouraging times for Middlesboro and vicinity. Business generally was on the slump. Most of mines were shut down and the pulps strike which went on the first of April caused the rest of them to close.
Then, as if to emphasize that worst follows worse, came the railroad strike the effects of which have not yet been effaced.

But before the summer was over business began to pick up. The mines opened and the men, with regular incomes again, came into town to deposit it in the banks and spend it at the stores. Business gradually got better, reaching its peak in December and starting in the new year with no diminution.

Conditions are better now than they have been since the inflated period of 1918-20, merchants and bankers both declare. Better than this, times are more stable, people are saving their money or spending it wisely, the banks say, and there is little danger of such a serious depression as the recent one for a long time. All indications are that a prosperous year is ahead and it is a sincere wish that the bank statements a year from now will show the best year Middlesboro has ever had.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

Dusty Coat, the fairy sandman, and Nancy and Nick had sprinkled magic powders on all the sleeping creatures
in Whispering Forest and Bright Meadow, and sent them all to dreamland.

After that the three little travelers
went to Dreamland themselves.

As they entered the little arched gateway with climbing roses all over it, a curious sight met their eyes.
There was Philip Frog in Satin and lace parading around with Mr. Mike Mole in velvet and lace, the two of them grown to such a size that they could have swallowed the Twins, if they had so wished in one gobble.

Philip was laughing. "Say, Mike, I've turned poet," said he, "I've been writing verses."

"You don't say so," replied Mike with admiration. "Would you mind letting me hear a jingle or two?"
"Not in the least," said Philip obligingly. "How's this?"

"Did you ever hear a hoot-and hoot?"
He's got a voice like a rubber-boat.
He sings no better than old gum-

shoe.
And he's always yelling out. Who,
who, who?"

"Tee-hee!" suggested Mike Mole.
"That's fine! When did you think of it?"

"I've always thought of it," declared Philip with a wave of his hand. "Only I couldn't say it because I was afraid he'd hear me. There are no owls in Dreamland and I can say what I please. Here's another about one of my enemies:

"Old Cobby Cob Coon
Is a perfect loon.
I hope he'll very soon
Fly to the moon!"

"Wonderful!" declared Mike Mole.
"You are a real genius, Philip. I suppose you wouldn't dare to say that our loud anywhere else but here,
either?"

"Well, hardly!" said Philip fantastically. "Knowing that Cob Coon likes frog's legs as well as I like flies."

THE FISHERMAN AND THE GENIE

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

NONPRODUCERS

By Berton Braley

The Socialists got all hot up about the leisure class
Which doesn't do a lick of work yet
rolls in unearned riches,
That little band of idle rich supported by the mass
Which has to toil for livelihood on farms, in shops and ditches:
But members of the leisure are very few and far,
I really doesn't matter much what aims they are pursuing.
The actually wasteful bunch of non-producers are
The people working hard at things that are not worth the doing!

The washroom boys; the checkroom
girls the doormen in the stores;
The hatters making derby hats
throughout this mighty nation:
The men who want to watch your car;
the long-winded totes
Who make an after-dinner speech a wearisome oration;
The business men who fill their time
with conferences vain,
Or write dull books about their lives—
dull lives, though somewhat checkered
The overdriven printer-folk with livelihoods to gain,
By printing congressmen's remarks—
"extended to the record."

These are a few of myriads who toil
and scheme and sweat
At doing wholly useless things that really do not matter,
And yet they're working hard enough,
they hustle and they fret,
They use a lot of energy and make a noisy clatter.
The world would be a better place if all this mob
Were switched to labor worth the while, to delving and to heaving, (Still you and I might suddenly be looking for a job,
If no one worked at anything that wasn't worth the doing.)

Most dangerous thing about an auto
is a pedestrian.

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abel.

KATE WARD, living with her widower father.

JUSTIN PARSONS, has a visitor,
CHINATOWN ALICE, who says
Kate's dead husband.

DAN WARD was the father of Alice's child.

DOROTHY, the latter falls ill and Kate offers aid, but meets with so puzzling a response from Alice that she drops the matter. Then, as she sits one evening discussing the case with her father, the two of them are attracted by their dog

MONK'S whining, to follow him to a lonely spot where they find the body of an unconscious man carrying him home, they put him to bed in their cottage where in the morning, Kate finds he able to talk.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Ah! Good morning, lady fair!"
The injured man was speaking. It was a voice entirely new to Kate. His tone was deep, musical. Kate knew that if he would sing at would be baritone and a lone song! There was a trace of mockery in the voice—just a fascinating bit of it.

"And to what do I owe this delightful feminine ministrations? To a car which acted badly last evening?
Blessed car!" he went on.

"If it was a car," Kate smiled, "we saw none, however, when we dug you out of the mud at the bottom of the gully."

"Out of the mud! And you soiled your dainty fingers for such a me!"
The injured man caught Kate's hand
as she straightened the coverlet about him.

His dark eyes smiled up at her. The tuft of hair visible between the bandages on the top of his head was also black.
"They are beautiful hands!"
Audaciously he was examining the hand he held as if it were an imper-sect thing—a bit of carving. And Kate, watching him, discovered the youth about him. He was young!
Perhaps younger than herself, thought Kate. Why, he couldn't be more than 26 or 27.

"Stop it! Stop it!" Kate laughed.

Kate, having even a smashed head doesn't even give a lid the privilege of holding a lady's hand on such short acquaintance!"

"Oh," with feigned surprise, "I hadn't thought of that!" He passed a hand lightly over the bandages.
"Why," I'd forgotten—in the exhilitation of your presence—that my head ever had been smashed!"

"There now—better lie down—the doctor said you were to be quiet for a few days." Kate had smoothed the pillows and replaced them.

"But we haven't been introduced!"
The youth insisted upon talking.
"Haven't you the least curiosity as to who I am—I thought women curious, you know."

"Who are you?" asked Kate, "and then lie down and be quiet!" with mock severity.

"I'm James Sullivan, bachelor and bum, Sullivan, Ind. And now, lady fair," he hesitated, then in his heaviest tone, "when do we eat?"

"Immediately!" Kate whisked out of the room and down to the kitchen
where Justin awaited her.

"How is he this morning?" he asked.
"I'm not at all sure we have an injured man in the house!" Kate laughed.

"That well? Fine!"

Justin seated himself at the breakfast table while she prepared a tray.
She took pains that the tray should be unusually attractive. As she started back up the stairs a delicate pink tinted her usually white skin.

"What's wrong with you, Kate Ward?" she chided herself. He's only a lad and you're a widow—still in love with your husband—and here you are blushing."

STRINGENT JAP TRAFFIC REGULATIONS ARE SENT TO GARAGE OWNER HERE

Motorists who think that the traffic rules of this country are too stringent may be interested in the following Japanese traffic regulations which were sent to a garage owner here:

"In narrow place of road corner and bridge speed slowly.
When you pass the corner and the bridge ring the horn.
When you meet the cow or horse speed slowly and take care to ring the horn.
When you cross the railway, wait until the other cars pass through.
When a passenger on the foot dove in sight, tootle the horn trumpet at him melodiously at first. If he still obstructs your presence, tootle him with vigor and express by word of the mouth by warning 'HII'.

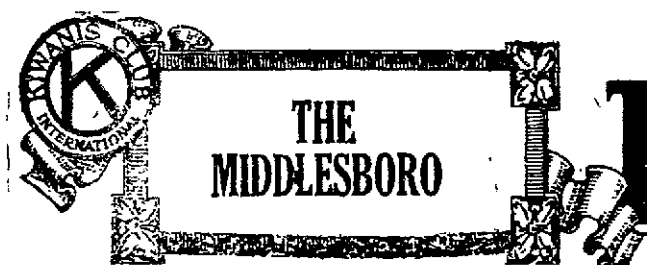

When anything is the matter with your car, you go to the police station and tell him.
When two cars are driving in the same road, if there is another car behind yours or ahead of yours, you must keep 60 yards away. He must do the same. If you go ahead of him ring horn and pass by him."

DR FINLEY, BAPTIST EVANGELIST, SPEAKS TO KIWANIS TODAY

About sixty members and guests of the Kiwanis Club were out today for the noonday luncheon, the first to be held under the new administration. Jack Inman was chairman of the meeting. J. E. Evans drew the attendance prize. A number of visitors were present.

The chief event of the meeting was the address by the Rev. Finley F. Gibson of Louisville, who is conducting the evangelistic services at the First Baptist church. The address was, in fact, a sermon the text being the Golden Rule, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them."

There is no rule in all the world so universally admired as this one—and none so universally broken," declared the speaker. "It is the very essence of Christian socialism. If all men practiced it in their hearts, in their homes, and in their daily affairs, this would indeed be an ideal world."

In outlining the best way to go about following the Golden Rule, the Rev. Finley suggested that each Kiwanian should first take the initiative to do for others what he would have them do to him. Too many persons, he showed, liked this precept only in as far as it applied to the other man's actions. The speaker urged men to take the rule into their daily business or professional work and really try it out. "If you would do to others what, on truly benevolent principles, you desire them to do to you, there would be a revolution in all life."

In conclusion, the Rev. Finley named a few of the results which would accrue from a general determination by men to follow the Golden Rule. It would make them more sympathetic, he said, and sympathy is the thing most people crave more than all else; it would make them less critical. "If there is anything that people like, it is to criticize others and point out their mistakes, and if there is anything that they do not like it is for others to criticize them in any way."

"The man who lives his life in accordance with the teachings of the Golden Rule, will never have any regrets," the speaker continued, in listing results. Too many times, he showed, men forget that there is a future reckoning when slights and injuries to fellowmen must be accounted for.
More encouragement and kindness to others was the last result listed by the speaker, who stressed that roses for the living were always more desirable than roses for the dead.

PINEVILLE KIWANIS HEAR DR. THOMAS

Regular Meeting Tuesday Night—Invitation to Visit Middlesboro Ladies' Night Accepted.

PINEVILLE, Jan. 11.—The Kiwanis Club of Pineville had as its speaker the Rev. Dr. Trigg A. M. Thomas at the regular weekly dinner given at the Pineville Hotel Tuesday night. Dr. Thomas, who is conducting revival services here at the Presbyterian church, took as his subject, "Character and Kindness."

A. P. Liebig, A. M. Kinnard, H. H. Overton and I. B. Dickey, representing the Middlesboro Kiwanis Club, were present and invited the Pineville Kiwanis club to attend the Ladies' night which will be held at the Hotel Cumberland Jan. 20. The Pineville Kiwanians accepted and are anticipating a lively evening, visiting the neighboring members.
Among the new Pineville Kiwanians who attended the club for the first time were: Pat Caton, Harry Petrey, Harry Isaacs, Thomas Wilson, L. C. Henderson and M. W. Peterson. There were forty-five members present.

A LIFE WORTH WHILE

Many a flower doth blush in vain
Under its drooping leaves;
Many a heart doth lose, not gain,
And many a sigh it heaves.
The world cannot all be sunshine,
Some must be happy, some sad,
But let's all of us try to do our part
To make this old world glad.

Just smile at every one you meet,
It will help them along their way,
And when you close your eyes at night
You will feel that you've won the day.
Don't tell all of the troubles that You have had,
Of all the things you have lost,
Of how you have to pay to live,
And that's an awful cost.

Just say it was a gift of God that you're there,
And you are trying to do your part;
Twice lift up many a fallen
And help to cheer a heart.
You're small, but you're big enough
to know
That life is just what you make it.
Your gift from God may be very small,
But give a smile and take it.

Good Manners

In buying sport clothes, either a man or a woman should ask in the order of importance:

(1) Are they comfortable? (2) Are they practical? (3) Are they becoming?

Sports garb of any kind interfering with freedom of movement, an auto coat that can't stand dust, a bathing suit that can't stand water, a hiking outfit that can't stand wear are all ridiculous.

What's ridiculous is never good form.

TODAY'S RECIPES

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE

Butterscotch pie may be made like the custard variety by filling a tin lined with pastry, or the paste may be rolled to one-fourth inch thickness and cut in three circles the same size of a pie plate. Place the three pieces of paste on a baking sheet, prick several times with a fork and bake 10 to 12 minutes in a hot oven.

For the filling take:

1-4 cup butter
1-3 cup flour
2 cups milk
Yolks of 3 eggs
1 cup brown sugar
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 cup caramel.

Cream the butter and flour together, add sugar, mixed with the yolks of eggs and salt, pour into this the hot milk, mix thoroughly and return to the double boiler. Cook 15 minutes, stirring constantly until the mixture thickens. When cold place between layers of pastry and cover top with meringue, made by adding to the stiffly beaten whites of eggs 4-4 cup each of brown and white sugar. Or, instead of cooking the mixture in a double boiler, turn into a tin lined with the paste and bake in a hot oven 15 minutes.

EFFECTIVE FROCKS

Even though pink is not so generally popular for evening as more vivid shades, it is not entirely out of the sartorial picture, and one sees attractive frocks of the palest pink, with much embroidery in tiny crystal beads, giving a certain frostlike appearance.

COLOR AND CHARM

Persian or cashmere shawls are draped into the most fascinating of gowns for the modern woman. Naturally, they conform to the simplest lines and least complicated draperies.

FUR FOR EVENING

In Paris there is a rage for fur on evening gowns. One gown of green crepe is heavily banded with leopard on its side drapery. The band is six inches or more in width.

Law against being more than 1 1/2 per cent efficient applies to booze, not enforcers.

TODES Praised in Hotel Magazine

Lessee of Cumberland Here From Florida for Few Days—Praises Hotel Condition

M. Todes, lessee of the Hotel Cumberland, arrived in Middlesboro Tuesday to discuss plans for the hotel in 1923 with Manager Schenck. He is well pleased with the condition of the hotel and with the record it has made during the past two months since its opening. He is advertising the hotel extensively in both the north and south and special plans to attract people to Middlesboro as a summer resort are now under way.

Mr. Todes has been recently in Florida, visiting a number of places there. He also has placed an option on two hotels there, one in Sanford and one in Orlando.

The following article from the Hotel World, printed in Chicago, emphasizes the importance with which Mr. Todes is looked upon in the hotel field throughout the country:

"The recent opening of the Hotel Cumberland at Middlesboro, Ky., under the proprietorship of Maurice Todes emphasizes the fact that Mr. Todes is taking his place in the list of important hotel operators. The new Cumberland is a fine house of 120 rooms, costing $400,000, and is complete in every detail. Middlesboro is one of the rapidly growing cities of the south and the new hotel is a winner from the start. George F. Schenck is resident manager.

"Mr. Todes' rise in the hotel world has almost been meteoric. Ten years ago he was a $20 a week dry goods clerk in St. Louis, but sensing the possibilities of the hotel field, he saved his money, got a job as clerk in a New York hotel, and, learning that the Hotel Westgate in St. Louis was on the market, he returned and secured the lease and furniture. Now his holdings in the hotel field are said to be worth three-quarters of a million. He has other hotel openings in view and may soon add them to his list."

WEEK-DAY BIBLE INSTRUCTIONS IN COVINGTON SCHOOLS

By Associated Press.
COVINGTON, Jan. 9.—Week-day Bible instructions will be included in the curriculum of public schools here starting early in February, it was announced here.

The Census committee, of which the Rev. George Prentiss is chairman, reported that a quota of 150 pupils of the third and fourth year grades had been attained and that the consent of their parents had been obtained. It was said that 18 churches are now affiliated with the movement and that four or five more will be added.

The children attending the religious non-sectarian instructions will be credited for the study. While no teacher has been selected, it is believed that a Covington woman, whose name has not been mentioned will be appointed. The plan adopted here is similar to the religious instruction program adopted in the Cincinnati public schools.

ONLY 21 DOG LICENSES ISSUED SO FAR IN 1923

Only twenty dog licenses have been sold in Middlesboro this year. It is said that a large number of dog owners each year evade paying the tax. Those who do pay are usually the owners of expensive dogs. Those owning dogs who do not pay the tax and secure the tags are subject to indictment before the Bell county grand jury and it is said that the law will be enforced with more than usual rigidity this year. License may be obtained from R. M. Knapp, deputy collector, at the city hall.

INDIGENT LOCAL WOMAN TAKEN TO POOR FARM

Mrs. Catherine Bruner was taken to the county poor farm Thursday, by Miss Wilhelmine Marx. Mrs. Bruner, though in poor health for some time, following a severe operation, was trying to do a few odd jobs at the Liberty Cafe for a living. She afterwards went to Marcum's rooming house, when she was too ill to work.

When Miss Marx was notified of her condition she immediately secured a permit from the County Judge, and Magistrate Schultz to have her cared for at the poor farm.

Former Resident Removes Here
I. H. Sizemore, who lived in Middlesboro 15 years ago, has removed here. He is now the traveling representative of an oil pump company. When he lived here before he was in the piano business. The town has had a most wonderful growth since I lived here before," said Mr. Sizemore. "I like it better than any town I have ever lived in and intend to stay here."

A traveler tells us he can't sleep at home unless they rock the bed and throw cinders in his face.

Prize Canary Heard by Radio

Radio fans who happened to listen in on a Chicago broadcasting station recently heard the best trained voice in the canary kingdom. It was that of "Baby Grand," declared world's champion roller canary at the International Roller contest held here. Frank Zager, its owner, is shown listening while "Baby Grand" broadcasts trills.

Gaetani in Uniform

Prince Gaetani, ambassador from Italy appointed by the Fascist government, is shown here as he appeared in Washington in full dress uniform for the first time. He is leaving St. Patrick's Cathedral after attending the memorial mass for the assassinated president of Poland.

BEWARE OF DRUGS

Medical Authorities Advise Caution in the Use of Preparations Liable to Contain Powerful Drugs.

Never drug your system to relieve or prevent colds, grippe or "flu." Drugs are liable to affect the nervous system or weaken the heart.

Hot medicinal tea is now recommended by many physicians, because it is best for the human system, acts quickly on the bowels and intestines by eliminating the excess poisonous wastes that usually tend to lower your physical resistance. Just pure, refreshing, healthful herbs from nature; that is why millions are now using Bulgarian Herb Tea to relieve and break up bad colds, and also keep the poisons flushed from the system. Many physicians now prescribe Bulgarian Herb Tea, and your druggist can honestly recommend it.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, sniffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no strugling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

GOOD SOAP FOR TWO CENTS A POUND

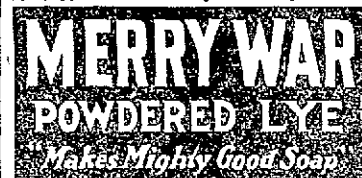

Make It At Home By This Easy Process—Takes Less Than 30 Minutes.

Nowadays, more and more women are doing as their mothers did and are making their own soap. If you have never tried it, you will be surprised to see how easy it is to make good soap, soft soap, hard soap or floating soap, just by using kitchen scraps and waste grease together with a can of Merry War Lye, the safe and sure soapmaker.

In the old days when soap was made by the boiling process it took nearly all day to make a kettle of soap. Now it is hardly any work at all—requires no boiling—takes less than 30 minutes. Saves you money and gives you all the pure, clean soap you need for kitchen, laundry and all household purposes.

You will find simple directions for soap-making on the label of every can of Merry War Lye.

Merry War Powdered Lye comes in a convenient can with revolving sitting top that cannot come off, cannot get lost, recloses tightly and preserves contents. It is economical to buy and easy to use.

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys

Eat less meat if you feel Back-achy or have Bladder trouble.

Too much meat may form uric acid, which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Big meat eaters can flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like they relieve the bowels, removing all the acids, waste and poison, else they may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad they have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

RALSTON CAR THIEVES ALSO STOLE CAR AT ATHENS, TENN.

The band of auto thieves which stole Joe Ralston's car here Saturday night and later abandoned it near Knoxville, also broke into a garage at Athens, Tenn. Sunday night and stole a new Buick. Afterwards they continued on their way to Chattanooga. Officers of Knoxville are working on the case and it is believed that the thieves will soon be captured.

It is thought by officers that the men are professional auto thieves. Mr. Ralston's car was locked when he left it but the thieves seem to have had no difficulty in making away with it.

Mr. Ralston is gone to Knoxville to claim his automobile and is expected to return tonight. In his efforts to aid in breaking up the practice of stealing, he has offered a reward of fifty dollars for the conviction of the guilty persons. The police department here has offered a similar amount.
